It also shares network liquidity with sister site PartyPoker NJ. When online poker was first launched in New Jersey in November 2013, the Borgata/Party partnership quickly turned to the top of the industry and remained there for most of two and a half years. Today, Borgata/PartyPoker includes the least trafficked network (out of three) in New Jersey. But that doesn't mean the places are cold, especially during the early hours. Cash-game liquidity is around an average of 80 players during the season increase and between 65-75 players during non-peak hours. The network spreads a fairly uniform mix of money games, tournaments with a wide range of buy-ins and Sit 'n Gos (SNG). This simply won't happen on legal and regulated online poker sites and NJ casinos, which are required by regulators to prove that it can provide a safe environment. The sites are governed by the same regulatory body that has presided over Atlantic City casinos for 40 years: the NJ gaming enforcement division. Borgata Poker FAQ Can I play with poker players in other states? Not yet. Right now you can only play against other players in the state of New Jersey. International players on the PartyPoker website are not accessible - only those registered on PartyPoker NJ and currently located in New Jersey. Does Borgata have an online poker room in Nevada? No. But borgata is now owned by MGM, which is one of the dominant operators in Nevada. So it's entirely possible that we could see the Borgata - or a sister brand - open an online poker site in Nevada. What distinguishes Borgata Poker from the competition? Borgata Poker's ties to the most popular live poker room on the East Coast (The Township in Atlantic City) allow it to host a myriad of tie-in promotions. These are most often spread through online satellites in live Borgata Poker Open events, which run quarterly. Borgata Poker also offered players the opportunity to win free hotel stays and luxury experiences at the Borgata. Players can also exchange earned iRewards points for Borgata comps. High rollers will notice that Borgata Poker spreads some of the biggest cash games in the NJ online poker market, with No Limit Hold 'em games available that work up to $25/$50. On the other hand, full-ring and 6-max games are up for grabs starting at $0.01/$0.02. Who should play borgata poker? There is no specific type of player that Borgata Poker targets. Instead, tournament buy-ins and money games run from low to high. The site struggles to get off the NGCs and part of the reason is low liquidity. So SNG enthusiasts might be the best which is a shame as the site boasts one of the most eclectic blends of the variant. Borgata Poker offers a number of social options, including missions, achievements, friends list and messaging. Therefore, players who prefer social interaction and friendly competition can be attracted to the site. Do Borgata Poker tournaments have overlaps? Value hunters will love playing poker tournaments on Borgata Poker, as the site's MTT are subject to frequent overlap. Sometimes, the overlaps are large enough to cover player membership fees. Are Borgata.com tournament qualifiers? Players can win Live Borgata events online, with qualifiers running for a couple of dollars. Like tournaments, many of these satellites are subject to overlap, offering opportunities of rare value for players. What is the most popular type of poker? For whatever reason, Pot Limit Omaha Hi-Lo games are quite popular on Borgata Poker. For players who get tired of No Limit Hold 'em games, they shouldn't have too much trouble finding a Hi-Lo PLO game, especially during the early hours of 6:00-12:00 pm. Three areas where Borgata Poker could do better server stability: Borgata Poker players report a high prevalence of delay and disconnections, especially at times when traffic is abnormally high (during a series of tournaments, for example). Disconnections can cause frustration and confusion, and Borgata would be wise to address the underlying server issues. Liquidity: The NJ online poker market is already hampered by its demographic restrictions, and Borgata Poker is the least trafficked site in the small market. This means that off-peak players may struggle to find a cash game, and SNG players will rarely find a game to their liking. Only a few guaranteed tournaments run during the day. Rakeback: Borgata Poker's VIP program is nothing to get excited about. Cash-back rates range from 1 to 5%, loyalty-level dependents, and bonus rates range from just 2 to 15%. For those who rely on rakeback, they are best served elsewhere. Play Borgata Poker now! Poker!
